1 Introduction

The following rules (“Rules”; includes all related precautions) are set forth by CyberZ, Inc. and the RAGE management team (the “Management”). The Rules apply to the Grand Finals and Preliminaries of RAGE Shadowverse 2020 Spring (collectively, the “Tournament”), which the Management runs and manages. The Management runs the Tournament according to the Rules. It also holds the right to exercise discretion in situations that are not provided for in the Rules or where applying the Rules would give players a significantly unfair advantage or disadvantage.

All the times and dates stated in the Rules are given in Japan Standard Time (JST).

2 Player Eligibility Requirements

The Tournament (including the three tournament formats and all their brackets) is an esports event that requires players’ continued participation. To be eligible to compete in the Tournament, each player must satisfy all the requirements of either A or B below.

A. Residents of Japan:

(1) Players agree to abide by the Rules.

(2) Players must sign up for the Tournament via the smartphone app Shadowverse Tournament Navigator and be confirmed as eligible. 5 Day 1 Preliminaries

5.1 Tournament Format

- (1) Players will engage in a seven round Swiss Draw in two groups.
- (2) A “Swiss Draw” is a tournament in which players meet one-to-one in each round with a player of similar performance, as measured by their cumulative score in previous matches.
- (3) Players who win at least six of the seven rounds will earn a place in the Day 2 Preliminaries, which is held on the next day.
- (4) The number of the Tournament players may be such that some rounds may be won by default.

5.2 Match Format

- (1) In each match, players may only use the two decks that they pre-registered using the method specified by the Management.
- (2) The two decks cannot be of the same class.
- (3) Each match will be played as a best-of-three series. The first player to win two games is declared the winner of the match.
- (4) In the first game in each match, players can select which of their two decks to use.
- (5) A winning deck may not be used twice in the same match.

For example, suppose that a player is using Forestcraft and Runecraft, and wins the first game with Forestcraft. In this case, Forestcraft cannot be used again in the match.

- (6) In each game, the player who goes first is decided randomly.

6 Day 2 Preliminaries

6.1 Tournament Format

- (1) Players will compete in a seven round Swiss Draw.
- (2) A “Swiss Draw” is a tournament in which players meet one-to-one in each round with a player of similar performance, as measured by their cumulative score in previous rounds.
- (3) Players who win at least six of the seven rounds will earn a place in the Preliminary Playoffs, which is held later in the day.
- (4) To earn a place in the Day 2 Preliminaries, players must either win at least six of the seven rounds in the Day 1 Preliminaries or be a Seeded Player as defined in these Rules.
- (5) Performance in the Day 1 Preliminaries (such as number of matches won and opponents’ average match win percentage) do not count toward performance in the Day 2 Preliminaries.
- (6) The number of the Tournament players may be such that some rounds may be won by default.

6.2 Match Format

- (1) Players must use the same decks they used in the Day 1 Preliminaries.
- (2) Each match will be played as a best-of-three series. The first player to win two games is declared the winner of the match.
- (3) In the first game in each match, players can select which of their two decks to use.
- (4) A winning deck may not be used twice in the same match.

For example, suppose that a player is using Forestcraft and Runecraft, and wins the first game with Forestcraft. In this case, Forestcraft cannot be used again in the match.

- (5) In each game, the player who goes first is decided randomly.

7 Preliminaries Playoffs

7.1 Tournament Format

- (1) Players will compete in a Single Elimination format in eight groups.
- (2) The number of rounds in the “Single Elimination” will depend on the number of players who advance to Day 2 of the Preliminaries.
- (3) The eight players who win all the matches in their group will earn a place in the Grand Finals, which are held on March 7 (Sat), 2020.
- (4) In the Single Elimination format, players who lose a single match are eliminated from the tournament.
- (5) Prize will be distributed to players according to their results in the Tournament and pursuant to rules prescribed separately.
- (6) Players who achieved a top-score in the Day 2 Preliminaries may potentially win their first Preliminaries Playoffs round by default, depending on the number of players who advance to the Preliminaries Playoffs.
- (7) Where multiple players achieved an equal number of match wins in the Day 2 Preliminaries, their relative positions will be determined by their opponents’ average match win percentage in Day 2. If the results are still tied, their positions will be determined by their own game win percentage in Day 2. If the results are still tied after both these processes, their relative positions will be determined by their opponents’ average game win percentage in Day 2. If the results are still tied after these three processes, their relative positions will be determined by a lottery.
- (8) When calculating game win rate, a default win is counted the same way as a match won by two games to zero.

(9) A player who advances to the Grand Finals (Category A Finalist) and who subsequently becomes unable to compete in them (for example, those who are disqualified and forced to withdraw) will be substituted by the player whom they beat in the finals of the Preliminaries Playoffs (“Category B Finalist”). Category B Finalists are not entitled to receive the prize money for winning in the finals of the Preliminaries Playoffs.

(10) If the tournament positions in the Grand Finals have already been decided, Category B Finalists will assume the position of the Category A Finalist whom they are substituting. Tournament positions that have already been selected will not be re-selected by reason of a Category B Finalist substituting a Category A Finalist.

(11) A Category B Finalist who has become unable to compete in the Grand Finals will be substituted by the player whom they beat in the semi-finals of the Preliminaries Playoffs (“Category C Finalist”). If a Category C Finalist becomes unable to compete in the Grand Finals, the finalist with whom they would have competed in the first round of the Grand Finals will win that round by default. If the tournament positions have not yet been decided, the positions will be selected on the basis that the Category C Finalist is among the finalists.

7.2 Match Format

(1) Players must use the same decks they used in the Day 1 Preliminaries.

(2) Each match will be played as a best-of-three series. The first player to win two games is declared the winner of the match.

(3) In the first game in each match, players can select which of their two decks to use. A winning deck may not be used twice in the same match.

For example, suppose that a player is using Forestcraft and Runecraft, and wins the first game with Forestcraft. In this case, Forestcraft cannot be used again in the match.

(4) In each game, the player who goes first is decided randomly.

8 Grand Finals

8.1 Tournament Format

(1) The players will compete in a three-round Single Elimination format.

(2) In the “Single Elimination” format, players who lose a single match are eliminated from the tournament.

(3) Prize money will be distributed to players according to their results in the Tournament and pursuant to rules prescribed separately.

(4) 1st and 2nd place players of the Grand Finals will earn a place at the WGP. If such players have already earned a place at the WGP, the right to compete at the WGP will be extended to the next highest-ranking player in the Grand Finals.

8.2 Match Format

(1) In each match, finalists may only use the three decks that they registered using the method specified by the Management.

(2) No two decks can be of the same class.

(3) Each match will be played as a best-of-five series. The first player to win three games is declared the winner of the match.

(4) In the first game in each match, finalists can select which of their three decks to use.

(5) A winning deck may not be used twice in the same match.

(6) For example, suppose that a player is using Forestcraft, Swordcraft, and Runecraft, and wins the first game with Forestcraft. Forestcraft cannot be used again in the match.

(7) In each game, the player who goes first is decided randomly.

9 Tournament Process

This section sets forth the rules related to the Tournament’s process.

9.1 Pre-Registering Decks

(1) Players must pre-register the decks they will use in the Tournament by a method prescribed separately.

*Players who do not register their decks correctly will be unable to participate in the Tournament.

(2) The Management will contact players about how and when to register your decks.

9.2 Check-in

(1) Players must arrive at the designated check-in location at the time indicated by the Management.

(2) Players who fail to arrive at the designated check-in location by the indicated time will be unable to participate in the Tournament.

(3) The Management may extend the check-in time if there are delays on public transport.

(4) Request by players to alter to the Tournament’s schedule will not be accepted.

(5) The Management may alter the Tournament’s schedule if it deems an alteration necessary for operational reasons.

(6) Players who are not in their assigned seat within five minutes of the start of a match will automatically lose the match. Such players will be dropped from the tournament if they fail to report before the next match begins.

9.3 Problems during matches

- (1) Players who get disconnected or experience other technical problems during a match must immediately take a screenshot, inform the Management, and accept the Management's ruling.
- (2) If players encounter any other problems during a match, they must immediately inform the Management and accept the Management's ruling. Players who fail to immediately inform the Management may be penalized if the Management is unable to adjudicate on the matter due to the player's delay.
- (3) Once informed of a problem that interrupts a match, the Management will investigate the matter (for example, it will interview the player concerned and examine the screenshot, the device, and the server log). If the Management concludes that a player's device has caused the problem, that player may receive a default loss.
- (4) Players are entirely responsible for ensuring the performance of their hardware and internet connection. If unexpected disconnects or technical glitches occur during a match, the Management will investigate the matter and issue a ruling, which could be to the effect of penalizing a player or requiring the players to replay the game in question.
- (5) Players must not object to the Management's rulings.
- (6) Players may be penalized if they replay a match or depart the match without informing the Management.
- (7) The Management reserves the right to set discretionary rules in cases where a known glitch could potentially interrupt a match, cause an app to act abnormally, or create other problems. For example, the Management may decide to prohibit players from using certain cards.

9.4 Reporting match Results

- (1) Players must report their match results using the Shadowverse Tournament Navigator. However, this rule does not apply to matches played in the device rental zone or the foreign players' zone; in such case, players must report their match results using the method specified by the Management.
- (2) The Management will arrange the next phase of the Tournament based on the reported match results.

10 Tournament Settings

This section sets forth the rules related to the Tournament's technical settings.

10.1 Player Devices

- (1) Players are expected to have installed the latest version of Cygames Shadowverse onto their own device and to compete using this device. Players who borrow a device on the day will need to connect their Shadowverse game data to the rental device using Device Link. Before doing this, they must use their own device to create a Device Link password and to register their decks in tournament mode.

a) How to link game data: <https://shadowverse.com/gameguide/datalink.php>

b) When provided a rental device, the above players will enter the Device Link password together with their Shadowverse User ID into the rental device.

Game data cannot be linked on social media.

*Players must submit a rental device consent form to borrow a device. Players requiring a rental device will be unable to compete in the Tournament without submitting the form.

- (2) Players are responsible for ensuring the performance of their device, including its internet connection and power.

*Charging stations will be provided, but the number will be limited. Players are advised to bring a portable charger or similar charging equipment as necessary.

- (3) Rental devices are only available to players who were unable to bring a device with the latest version of Cygames's Shadowverse installed. Before a player can receive a rental device, the staff will first confirm that the player has no device capable of running Shadowverse without issue. A rental device will only be provided if the staff determine this to be the case.
